ransomware attacks, and a recently conducted external penetration test (related to network vulnerability) with results that found the NSHE's network to be properly protected.

Chair McMichael inquired about the number of cyber-attacks the NSHE receives in a 24-hour period. Chief Information Security Officer Semmens answered the NSHE is constantly bombarded with attacks and attempts; however, there is security in place to prevent those and she will provide detailed data on that to the Committee.

Chair McMichael thanked Chief Information Security Officer Semmens and shared that he is pleased with her team's work.
